

Betaglucan Formula

Micronutrients complex with beta-glucans keeps the immune system in shape

Viruses, bacteria, foreign substances - our body is confronted with various intruders every day. A highly effective and intelligent protective system - the immune system - penetrates our body and helps to resist the various microorganisms. For effective immune defence, the body's own protective system is actively supported by various vital substances. Especially vitamin C and the trace element zinc are among the proven immune classics. They contribute to the normal functioning of the immune system and help to neutralize free radicals that could otherwise damage body structures.

Betaglucan Formula is a combination preparation of the immune classics vitamin C and zinc, sensibly combined with valuable beta-glucans. Betaglucans are special carbohydrate components that are extracted from the cell walls of yeasts. With the raw material Yestimun®, this preparation contains a natural, effective and high-quality ingredient from Germany. It is obtained from brewer's yeast, which is propagated exclusively on malted barley, hops and water. Due to the patented, gentle purification of the beta-glucans, their structure can be recognized excellently by immune cells.

Especially in times of increased stress, this special combination of high-quality beta-glucans with the immune-active vital substances vitamin C and zinc supports the immune system. Betaglucan Formula - the natural preparation for daily immune challenges.
